

Dr. Sarabjit Singh, M.A., M.Phil., Ph.D., is Professor of Punjabi Studies at Panjab University, Chandigarh. He is a distinguished Punjabi scholar, literary critic, editor, and researcher who has made significant contributions to Punjabi literature and literary criticism. He has authored numerous books, edited scholarly volumes, published more than 100 research papers and articles, supervised M.Phil. and Ph.D. scholars, and presented research at national and international seminars. He has also received several prestigious literary and academic awards and has served in important academic and literary administrative positions. His major areas of expertise include Punjabi literature, literary criticism, research, editing, and academic administration.