

Leaf-shredder

A leaf-shredder has been devised using an old discarded lawn-mover. A stand and feeding funnel are attached to the lawn-mover and it works finely as a leaf-shredder. The dried leaves collected from different trees are converted into smaller pieces using this shredder and then the chopped matter is stored in bags for later use. The dried leaves have been observed as an excellent growth booster for earthworms being used in vermicomposting.

